Fire, Flood, Earthquake: Are you prepared?

Nanaimo, Penticton & Prince George

Fires, floods and earthquakes are a reality for many of us in BC but emergencies, like our museums and galleries, come in all sizes. The BCMA, with support from the Royal BC Museum, invites you to develop or refine your facility's emergency response plan to identify risks and prepare for whatever you may encounter.

To protect and preserve our collections for future generations, it is critical to have a robust Emergency Response and Business Continuity Plan that includes all staff, volunteers and visitors.

Roll up your sleeves with Royal BC Museum Manager of Risk, Security Services & Business Continuity, Bill Chimko.

- › Learn how to conduct an in-depth Risk Assessment
- › Develop (or improve) your Emergency Response and Recovery Plan
- › Develop a solid and reliable crisis communications plan

This hands-on workshop has been developed for small museums, galleries, historic sites and cultural centres, and will be of interest to all curators/managers and to members of the Boards of non-profit Societies with responsibility for museums, galleries and historic sites.

In order to make this workshop accessible to as many as possible, we have developed the timing to accommodate long drives and ferry trips, and have kept costs as low as possible. A light lunch is included.

Registration:

- › BC Museums Association Members: $35
- › Future Members: $55

BCMA provides professional development workshops, forums and seminars throughout the year to create a bright future for BC's museum, gallery and related communities.
